TERMS AND CONDITIONS FOR CREMATION AUTHORIZATION: The Cremation Authorization Form (on front of this document) is required to be completed and signed prior to the cremation of your pet.

CREMATION IS AN IRREVERSIBLE AND FINAL PROCESS: The pet is placed in the cremation chamber by the crematory staff, and using a suitable fuel that will create intense heat and flame (1400 - 1800 degrees Fahrenheit) the body of the pet is reduced to basic compounds (calcium). During the cremation process, it may be necessary to open the cremation chamber and reposition the remains of the animal in order to facilitate a complete and thorough cremation. Upon completion of the cremation, all substances are consumed or driven off, except bone fragments; (calcium), metal or other non-combustible material, as the temperature is not sufficient to consume them. Due to the nature of the cremation process, any possessions or materials, such as collars, tags, microchips or surgical metals that are left with the animal and not removed prior to cremation may be destroyed or if not destroyed, will be disposed of by PHFH in a non-recoverable manner. The Authorizing Agent understands that arrangements must be made to remove any such personal possessions or materials at the time that the animal is received by PHFH.

Following a cooling period, the cremated remains shall be recovered by manual means, such as brushing, in order to retrieve the cremated remains from the cremation chamber. Although PHFH will make a reasonable and prudent effort to retrieve all of the cremated remains from the chamber, some dust and other residue from the process will be left behind. Active commingling cannot, by definition, occur with a private cremation. Active commingling will occur with communal cremation.

After the cremated remains are removed from the cremation chamber, the calcium compounds often will contain recognizable bone fragments. After those compounds have been separated from any other non-combustible material, they will be mechanically processed and pulverized. This process may cause incidental commingling of the remains with the residue from the processing of the previously cremated remains. These granulated particles will then be placed into a designated container based on the type of cremation identified on the front of this document.

CREMATION OPTIONS: A private cremation is a cremation procedure during which only one animal's body is present in the cremation chamber during the cremation process and all of the cremated remains of that pet and only that pet are returned to its owner and/or authorizing agent. A family cremation is a cremation procedure during which more than one pet from the same family and only pets from the same family are present in the cremation chamber together during the cremation process. All of the commingled cremated remains of those pets, and only those pets, are returned to their owner and/or authorizing agent. A communal cremation is a cremation process where multiple pets are cremated together in the cremation chamber. These actively commingled remains are not returned to the owners and are disposed of in a dignified and non-recoverable manner.

WITNESSING/VIEWING: Viewing a deceased pet and/or witnessing a cremation can be an emotional experience. Pet owners are assuming the risks involved and fully release PHFH from any liability. To the extent permitted by PHFH, the persons identified on a Cremation Witness Acknowledgement Form are authorized to be present prior to and during the cremation of the animal's remains. Witnessing of any aspect of the cremation and processing procedure shall be in compliance with all applicable laws and any safety regulations. If you desire witnesses, you must list the witness names, and all witnesses must sign an additional Cremation Witness Acknowledgement Form.

FINAL DISPOSITION OF CREMATED REMAINS: Following the cremation, the Owner/Authorizing Agent directs PHFH to undertake the actions that the Owner/Authorizing Agent sets forth with regards to the release or disposition of cremated remains. Cremated remains shall only be released, delivered or disposed of by PHFH in a dignified manner, in accordance with the law, and with expressed oral or written consent of the Owner/Authorizing Agent. That person understands that if no arrangements for the final disposition of the cremated remains have been made within 45 days after the cremation or if that person has not taken delivery of or caused the delivery of the cremated remains, or in the event the arrangements of the final disposition have not been carried out within that period because of the inaction of a party other than PHFH, then PHFH may dispose of those remains in any dignified manner.
